Pictured on the front cover is a walnut tree as it looks today, on the W.A.F. Jarry's old home place. It could be approximately ninety to a hundred years old. All members of the W.A.F. Jarry family who were old enough to remember when W.A.F. Jarry lived there, have fond memories of it.

We wish to dedicate this book to

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As with any project of this kind, without the aid of a number of people, this work could not have been completed. It is impossible to thank everyone individually for their help throughout this project.

We are especially grateful to the following for their help, encouragement at various stages of gathering material for this book.

Mrs. Kathleen Sechrest of Lake Jackson, Texas for her information on the Arkansas branches of the Jarry/Jerry and Grumbles families.

Mr. Charles E. Dean of Dallas, Texas for the many hours he spent going over translated materials and for his many suggestions which were found to be most helpful.

Mrs. Exa W. Thomas and Mrs. Jeanne Lush who helped find easier and better ways to search, find and gather material. Both these ladies are from Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Richard Lackley of Forest, Mississippi, for his help in locating source materials that were so vital.

Mr. Roland J. Auger, Director of the French–Canadian National Archives for the background on the Jarry Family on the American Continent.

Mr. Maurice Thomas of the French National Archives for materials on the origins of the Jarry Family.

Mrs. Amy Peacock Bailey, now of Center, Texas, for her support and encouragement.

Mrs. Alma Muckleroy Strode for copies of W. A. F. Jarry's family bible and many of her early recollections.

The Genealogy and History Librarians of the Dallas, Ft. Worth and Stephen F. Austin Libraries for their invaluable help and guidance. Especially Mrs. Lucile Anderson Boykin of the Dallas Public Library.

A very special debt of gratitude is owed to the Descendants of William Alvy F. Jarry and Mary Jane Grumbles Jarry for making their pictures and family data available for this book.

Most of all, though, without the help of two grand ladies of Shelby County, the senior members of the Jarry Family, daughters - in - law of W. A. F. Jarry and Mary Jane Grumbles, much of the little known facts and reminiscences of the elders would have been lost to us.

These two grand ladies are Mrs. Lela Hughes Jarry, widow of Fred Jarry and Mrs. Ada Bridwell Jarry, widow of Hugh Monroe Jarry.

To all the others, without whom this project could not have become a reality, our most humble apologies for not mentioning you by name, but the list is so long that it is impossible for us to do so in this limited space.

OUR APPRECIATION

by

Juanita J. Bowlin

In behalf of the descendents of the William Alvy F. Jarry Family, we wish to express our sincere appreciation to Paul R. Jarry for his excellent contribution to our family history record. We realized that we needed the assistance and guidance of a good genealogist, and we found Paul to be a person with that talent. Since our Jarry family is mostly of French and Dutch descent, Paul's being able to read, speak and translate French, and knowing how and where to get the nedded records, made his services of great importance for obtaining information from the French records---back to the earliest records of our family in the European Country.

We are grateful also for the valuable information that he has obtained from libraries, County Clerk Offices, States and National Archives, as well as from other places.

We wish Paul R. Jarry, of 6814 Shady Brook Lane, #1102 Dallas, Texas 75231, a very successful, productive, and rewarding future in his French translations, editing, genealogical research and ghost writing business.

We express our heartfelt thanks to Ernest C. Hatton for his help and encouragement, most especially in a financial way.

We acknowledge our appreciation to Barbara Lawrence Robertson and David L. Robertson for proofreading the script just before it is carried to the printers, and for their working with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harkness, owners of PINEYWOOD PRINTING, Lufkin, Texas.

To the many others who have been of assistance in so many ways, we want to extend our gratitude.

PREFACE

Although this book has an author and two co-authors, in reality, it is a work by the members of a family. We have done research on some of the background history, but most of the family records were those of the members of the families descended from W.A.F. Jarry, and his wives, (1) Catherine Grumbles and (2) her sister, Mary Jane Grumbles.

Let us say, that this book is of a family, for a family and by a family. Much credit should be given to the two eldest members of this pioneer family: Lela Hughes Jarry and Ada Bridwell Jarry, widows of Fred Jarry and Hugh Monroe Jarry. Their personal recollections have proven to be an invaluable asset to us.

Within these pages, we will try to show only the facts that are known to us at this time. Although a great deal of research has been done, there are still many questions that are left unanswered.

This is more of a history of the Jarry Family in Shelby County, rather than a full genealogy of the family from its humble beginnings in this country. The research as to the whys and wherefores of the family's emigration to the southern states have not been completely answered at this time, and unnecessary assumptions will not be made that could confuse its readers.

We are as proud of our Jarry heritage as we are of being Americans, but more than that, to be Texans. The Jarry heritage is rich indeed! We are a proud people and when you read these pages, you will understand in a much better way why this is our right.

Whether you are in Texas, Arkansas, New England, Canada or France, the basic Jarry characteristics do not differ very much. We not only feel and act very much in the same manner, but find family resemblemblance among our members to be astounding!

It was with this great pride in the name that I bear that I came to know and love my East Texas (distantly removed) cousins. I am as much at home with them as I am with those in Rhode Island.

"Family, God and Country", the motto of the Jarry Family is one that we should never forget. I have always taken great pride in the name I bear and am equally proud of our forefathers as I know I have good reason to be.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Paul R. Jarry was born July 18, 1937, the son of Paul - Emile Jarry and Mildred Rita Slavin. He was raised by his grandparents, Louis Jarry and Delia Lussier in Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

He attended private schools in Woonsocket, R.I. and Marianist Preparatory in Beacon, New York. After serving in the Navy, he entered Providence (R. I.) College, and La Sorbonne in Paris, France from where he was graduated with a B.A. in Psychology. He also attended Browning Business College in Albuquerque, New Mexico and Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas.

His interest in genealogy began in 1965, while he was doing graduate work at Northeastern University in Boston, Massachusetts. It was at that time his research on the Jarry Family began. He found two manuscripts on the family at the Boston Public Library written in French and Dutch.

Mr. Jarry has written several historical and genealogical articles. He has also translated French documents and lectured on genealogy and history.

In the Local History & Genealogical Society of Dallas, he has served as Treasurer, Co-Editor and Editor. He is also a member of the Texas State Genealogical Society and the American Association for State and Local History.

As a founder of the Researchers' Roundtable, he is presently serving as its Chairman. He is also Editor of that organization's news letter, and chairman of its by-laws committee.

Presently employed as Credit Manager for Chem Tech Resources in Dallas, Texas, a division of Warner Company of Philadelphia, He was formerly with Dr. Pepper Bottling Company of Dallas in the same capacity, and had been employed by the Hilton Hotels International for many years. The latter enabled him to travel through the Continental United States, Hawaii and Europe.

In 1973, the Texas State Genealogical Society awarded his family manuscript first place for unpublished manuscripts at its annual convention. "The Jarry Family in France, Canada, and the United States" has as its last segment, the material that is in this book.

Actively involved in promoting the study of genealogy in schools, contending that children would take a greater interest in history if they were made aware of the part their ancestors played in its making.

Eventually, he hopes to devote all of his time writing, researching and encouraging the study of history and genealogy, not only for Anglo American, but for all ethnic groups.

THE JARRY FAMILY BACKGROUND & HISTORY

Like most families, there are numerous legends on the background of this family, none of which can be authenticated. In this brief summary we will show that which has been verified and authenticated; any assumptions that are made, will be pointed out and should not be taken as fact.

The name Jarry means "Dweller at or near an oak Plantation". Like most French Families, the name undoubtedly dates back to the year 1066 A. D. However, our direct lineage can only be proven to Claude Jarry who was born ca. 1390.

The Jarry Family came from Sable which was then located in the Province of Maine, southeast of Brittany. In the middle of the 16th Century, members of this family removed to the adjoining provinces of Anjou, Persch and Poitou; none of which are in existence today. These Provinces are now all part of the Maine-et-Loire Departement in the Loire Valley.

The first four generations and their spouses were:

I.	Claude Jarry	b. ca. 1390	m. 1415	Madeleine Davy
II.	Jacques (James)	b. ca. 1425	m. 1445	Elizabeth du Plessis
III.	Ghyslain Robert	b. ca. 1450	m. 1468	Phillipe de Trepigne
IV.	Pierre (Peter)	b. 1491	m. 1524	Renee le Doisne.

It is from Pierre Jarry that all who bear the family name today are descended. Robert had another son, also named Robert, who was counselor genral to the king, but died unmarried and without issue.

Pierre, shortly after his birth, as an honor to his father, was ennobled by Charles VII, King of France. Later, Pierre, like his father, was to become Master of the Counts, Chief Counselor to the King of Sicily and Arch Duke of Angers. His descendants, as his predecessors, would continue in the latter position until the Reformation. Pierre's son Madelon was the first to inherit this post.

Unlike those before him, Pierre had a large family, the exact number is not known. What is known is that he had at least four sons who attained prominence in government or literature. He also had several daughters. Two of his sons became governors of castles in the Loire Valley.

The Jarry letter of ennoblement was not registered with the French Armorial which was not unusual at that time as the cost was tremendous, ranging anywhere from 500 ecu (2,000 pounds) to 2,000 ecu (12,000 pounds). This is not unusual as many of the royal edicts of this period are incomplete. It is unfortunate that the original letter of ennoblement has not been preserved. However, a second letter, verifying this ennoblement was written by Henry IV, King of France (Henry II of Navarre) in 1606. This letter is preserved at the French National Archives in Paris on microfilm, nouveau d'hossier #193. This letter is ten pages long and handwritten by him.

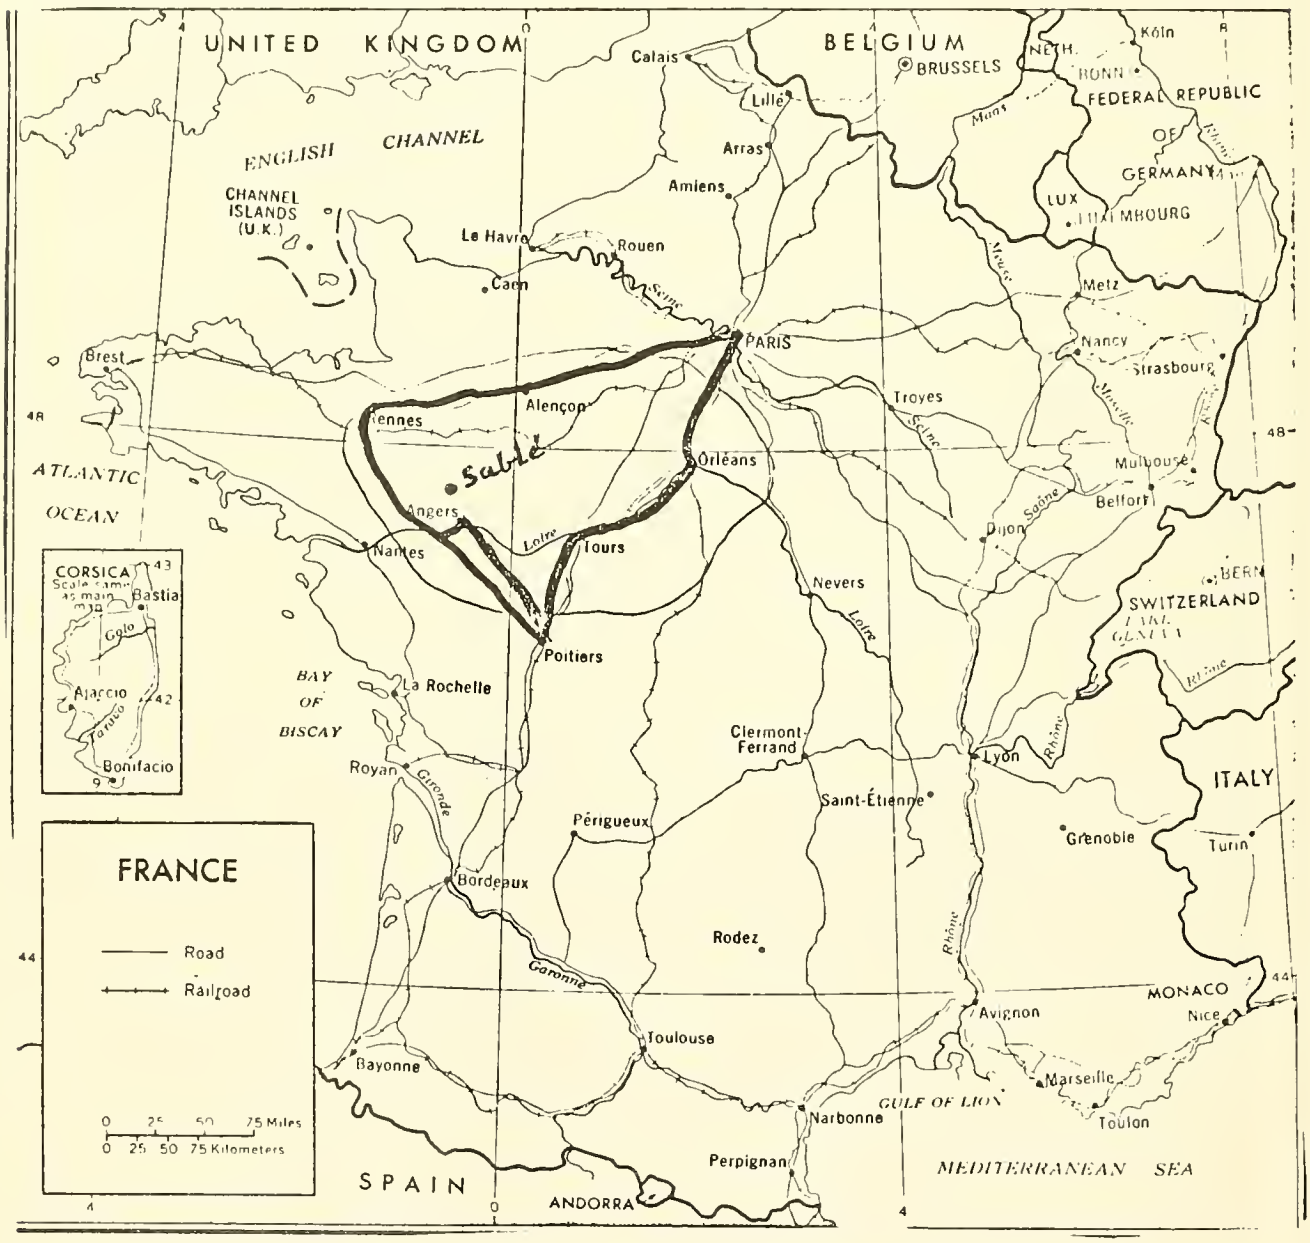
The family motto, "Deo, Familia et Patria" means GOD, FAMILY AND COUNTRY.

This map shows the approximate location of Sable, the ancestral home of the Jarry Family. It could be slightly more to the southeast. In its almost five hundred history, the family has remained in the darkened area of France.

At the University of Rennes, the oldest in this area, a member of the Jarry family has been on the faculty since its founding three hundred years ago.

The ancestral home is located in what is now the Maine-et-Loire Department. For a better map, more detailed, consult the Funk and Wagnalls Encyclopedia.

In France, the members of this family, by choice, has restricted itself within a hundred and fifty mile radius of its ancestral home.



It is interesting to note that this family, whether in France, Holland, Canada or the United States, has always made its home on or near a river!

Which of Pierre's sons are we directly descended from? Unfortunately, we cannot say for certain at this time. We do know that it can only be Madelon or Eustache.

For years, I have tried to find a copy of the baptismal certificate or our common ancestor, Eloy Jarry, his birthplace having been given as St. Martin d'Ige, Persche. Not only have 1 been unable to find this certificate, but I have been unable to locate the town in that province.

Being quite familiar with the writings of the sixteenth and seventeenth century and the bad penmanship of the mass during this period, I have come to the conclusion that this place was non-existent, but quite understandable as far as the French Canadian Records are concerned.

Most of those who came to Canada, or what is now the Province of Quebec, came from the Province of Persche. At the time he came to Canada, Eloy Jarry was in Persche; he may have just given his birthplace as St. Martin and the rest was assumed.

Recently, I did come across a town named St. Martin d'Angers, with some of the penmanship of that day, Angers could easily have been mistaken for Ige. Especially in the old script.

Of this we are certain, he was born 9 July, 1609 and came to Canada in 1650. He became a landowner on January, 1654 and married Jeanne Merrin in the city of Montreal on 9 November, of the same year. She was born in Poitiers in 1636. She probably came to Canada with her uncle, Jean Archambault.

Their first son, Jean-Baptiste, called John, was born 13 August, 1655. He was a travelling salesman, commuting to Detroit at regular intervals. At the age of fifty-eight, he married Louise Paradis and died without issue. 2nd - Clemence was born 5 February, 1657 and married (1) Andre Rapin 25 November, 1669 and (2) Joseph Gautier, 16 August, 1699. 3rd - Marguerite, born 30 August, 1858. She was the godchild of Marguerite Bourgeois who founded the first hospital in Montreal. Not much is known about her. 4th - Henry, born 1 November, 1659, three months after his father's death. He married Agathe Lescuyer, 25 November, 1693. She died shortly after the birth of her fourteenth child, Joseph, our progenitor.

Eloy Jarry, one of the twenty-four men of Montreal who left the city on 24 may, 1659 to meet the Iroquois in hopes of saving the city from mass slaughter, was killed with his companions in a fierce battle, but by their action, they saved their beloved city. When the Iroquois saw the fight that these few men had put up, they did not dare march on the city, thinking that they might be outnumbered there.

Two years later, his body never having been found, he was declared legally dead and his estate settled. Two months later, on 18 July, 1661, his widow, Jeanne Merrin married Henry Perrin by whom she had four more children. She was the matriarch of both the Jarry and Perrin families in America, but not the Perrines of Virginia and North Carolina.

There were three more migrations of members of the Jarry Family between 1821 and 1900. The last male descendant of these lines is Victor Jarry, a pharmacist from St. Claire Shores, Michigan.

Of Henry's fourteen children, the child of his sorrow, the last, Joseph, was the one to perpetuate the family name. Born 6 November, 1716, he married (1) Louise Maillet 22 September, 1749. Of this union, one son was born, Louis, the last of our common ancestors. He then married (2) Margaret Trudel 23 February, 1757 and had no further issue.

Louis Jarry, born 17 July, 1750, married Marie Joseph Cousineau 12 February, 1781. Of their many children, the eldest was Jean-Baptiste Guillaume (William B.) who later settled in Accomack County, Va.

It is believed that his sixth son, William Henry (not proven) was the father of W.A.F. Jarry who later came to Arkansas and Shelby County, Texas. The reason for this assumption has to be made here. It has been impossible to get documented proof as to the birth of William Henry in Virginia. The 1820 census shows William B. Jarry, his wife and two oldest sons, between 16 and 20, as aliens. His four other sons, the youngest, age seven, were born in Virginia, presumably on their father's farm in Accomack County, Virginia. William had neither slaves nor servants, which leads us to believe that he came to Virginia from Canada.

His family's station in France would not have allowed him to come to America with a family and no servant. There is no record that establishes any of the other members of the Jarry family as having settled on American soil prior to 1821 and that was in Hull, P.Q. Canada, across the river from Buffalo, New York.

Another assumption is that on W.A.F. Jarry's marriage certificate to his first wife, Catherine Grumbles, his last name is spelled "Jerrie", which is a common mispelling for the name when the french pronunciation is used. On his Confederate Pension Records (his widow's Pension), his full name is given as William Alvy Fitts Jarry.

This could possibly mean that his mother's maiden name was Fitts. Although Alma Muckleroy Strode believes it could have been Fitzgerald. Having gone through the Fitzgerald Genealogies, especially those in Va., I have been unable to find a marriage into the Jarry Family from the early part of the 17th century through 1920.

Several books about the Jarry family have been written, both in France and Holland. Some of the family histories are contradictory from one volume to another. The one thing that carries through in all documents though is that the name JARRY is NEVER pluralized. At least not when you write it.

There also was a Gehrer family from Russia (Jewish) who was exiled to Poland in the latter part of the sixteenth century. While in Poland, the name was changed to Jaronski and remained in that country for a number of years. In Russia, Nicholas (I) Gehrer had been one of the chief Counselors to the Imperial Court, causing the gentile counselors to become very jealous. They managed to turn the Grand Duke against him and he was exiled soon thereafter.

His son, Nicholas (II) was sent to Paris to complete his musical education. Once having completed his studies, he became composer for the King of France. His son Nicholas (III) was the great French Calligrapher of the 18th Century. He also had one son who died without issue.

There is still a great deal of research to be done on the Jarry Family. This hopefully will be done in the future, but will require several volumes of material to contain all of the material on the various lines of this old French family.

According to the Papers on Protestantism in France, there had been but one member of the Jarry Family who was a Huguenot. He was the son Rene whose widow and her four children, (David being the eldest) removed to Holland. David was the only one of the four to return to his homeland. He was killed shortly thereafter and died without issue.

According to the French Archives, the Jarry Family was not at any other time part of the Protestant Movement in France. This disqualifies any of us from membership in any of the Huguenot Societies.

The Jarry Coat of Arms was bestowed upon Pierre Jarry in August of 1491 and is described as follows:

The Halberts of Akron, Ohio who are not generally known for their accuracy in supplementing the right Coats-of-Arms, were unusually accurate with ours. This was surprising as there are five Jarry Coats-of-Arms, but only one that belongs to all of us.

"Different spellings of the same original surnames are a common occurrence. The most prominent variations of JARRY are Jarrit, Jarrige, Jeary, Jerrey, Jerrie, Jerry, Jaray and Jearey."

I have not found this to be true except for mispellings of Jerry and Jerrie. Occasionally, we will also find the name spelled Jary. Even those of our ancestors who were illiterate knew how to spell the name and were very proud of it.

Additional information was "Information available to us indicated that in 1971, there were approximately 100 heads of household in the United States with the old and distinguished JARRY name. The United States Census Bureau in 1970 estimated that there were approximately a total of 310 people in the United States carrying the Jarry name. Although the figure seems relatively low, it does not signify the many important contributions that individuals bearing the Jarry name have made to history."

If this statement were true, there would be no other Jarry families in the United States except the descendants of my grandfather and his brothers'. This would exclude all other branches of the Jarry Family.

This would delete all the southern branches of those who bear the Jarry name. There are other Jarry families in the southwest, west coast and middle states as well. I would not venture to say how many people there are who bear the Jarry name in the United States alone. You can rest assured that there are more than three times the number quoted by the Halberts, though.

THE WILLIAM HENRY and ANN J. JARRY FAMILY

William Henry Jarry was born in Virginia about 1813. His wife's name was Ann J. Her maiden name might have been Jolly. He moved some time before 1842 to Macon County, Alabama. He was living in Union County, Arkansas in 1852. He and his wife Ann J. Came to Texas in 1869. He died 27 August, 1870; was buried at Shelbyville, Texas in Shelby County. His grave site became lost to his family. A memorial marker for him was placed in the Mt. Pleasant Cemetery in Shelby County by his great-grandchildren in 1972. It is believed that he had a brother named Abner Archibald Jarry, also born in Virginia in 1819. This brother had a son also named William Henry who was born September 8, 1847 in Mississippi. This nephew died 21 October, 1916. Abner Archibald died in 1862 in Union County, Arkansas. He was buried at Burce Chapel.

Mrs. C. L. (Kathleen) Sechrest of Lake Jackson, Texas compiled the following information from her family records. According to Kathleen Sechrest, Abner Archibald Jerry was a brother of William Henry Jarry. Note the way the census record shows spelling of the name.

We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Sechrest for her invaluable information. She is related to both the Jarry and Grumbles families. Her maiden name was spelled Jerry.

Mrs. Sechrest, a music teacher in Lake Jackson, Texas is active in the local Daughters of the American Revolution Chapter and several other patriotic organizations.

She is a genealogist and lecturer of some reknown in the Lake Jackson area, and has been a guest speaker to several organizations in the South Texas area.

Her own research, yet unpublished, would prove invaluable for its historical value as well as genealogical data. Hopefully, she will publish her works in the not too distant future in order that we may all benefit from her research and knowledge.

WILLIAM ALVY F. JARRY and CATHERINE GRUMBLES

William Alvy F. Jarry was born April 25, 1842 in Macon County, Alabama. Tuskegee is the county seat. The "F" in his initials, according to some members of the family, stood for Fitzgerald, but was most likely shortened to Fitz. In his wife's application for her Widow's Civil War Pension, she spelled it Fitts.

He, with his parents, moved to El Dorado, Arkansas when he was about ten years of age. He resided in Arkansas until 1868. He first married Catherine Grumbles in October, 1860 in Union County, Arkansas. To this marriage was born one daughter:

Alice Jarry, born July 25, 1861 in Arkansas

Catherine Grumbles Jarry was born August 28, 1842, a daughter of Jesse Grumbles and Elizabeth Kendale (Kindle). She died November 23, 1862 and is most likely buried in Bruce Chapel Cemetery, Union County, Arkansas.

Her father, Jesse Grumbles was born in 1798/99, probably in Dallas County, Alabama. Her mother was born about 1811 in South Carolina. Her maternal grandfather was Samuel Kendale.

CIVIL WAR --- INFORMATION ON WILLIAM ALVY F. JARRY

On William Alvy F. Jarry's application form for Soldier's Civil War Confederate pension gives some valuable information. Some excerpts are: Pension was allowed from March 1, 1914. He stated that he was 71 years of age, and that he had lived in Texas since 1869 near Center, Texas and that his Post office address was Choice, Texas R.F.D. No. 2. He stated that he had applied one time before and no records could be obtained from Washington, D.C. He enlisted Spring of 1863 about April or first of May, and served until close of war. He said, "I was a member of 1st, Arkansas Battery (that was the second organization of that Company and was after fall of Vicksburg). Capt. Frank McNally, J.P. Murphy, Lt. I was never transferred." He was in Light Artillery. "I was second Sergt. of Co., but was non-commissioned." He made this application August 20, 1913. Edgar W. Hooker was County Judge of Shelby County at that time.

Some Civil War Confederate veterans, verified that they served with William Alvy F. Jarry in the 1st Arkansas Battery, and that he was 2nd Sergt. of Co.

Information given by William Alvy F. Jarry: "At the close of the war my battery was at Rocky Mound, Louisiana, near Shrevesport. Just at the time of the break up of the command I was away on furlough---about two weeks---and after the break up, I reported to Camden, Arkansas and received parole as attached herein. This was in June 1865."

WHY---WILLIAM ALVY F. JARRY AND HIS FATHER LEFT ARKANSAS

After the Civil War was ended, and the "Carpet Baggers" and the "Scalawags", as they were called, came down from the north to Little Rock, Arkansas to try to have a part in governing the people there, William Alvy F. and his father, William Henry Jarry, chose to get away. They came to Shelby County, Texas in 1869 and settled in what became Mt. Pleasant community, about nine miles from Center, Texas, not far off the Center and Nacogdoches highway, where he received a Texas land grant composed of one-hundred- sixty acres.

Information taken from a news paper article (probably - Lake Jackson newspaper) by Peggy Case:

Title: "The Family Hobby" - SEARCHING INTO THE PAST LEADS TO LOST RELATIVES

" A dying father's regret led a Lake Jackson woman into a hobby that she found undiminishingly absorbing for 13 years."

"Kathy (Kathleen) Sechrest got the inspiration for delving into her family's genealogy when she was staying with her father who was terminally ill with lung cancer. He mentioned that he regretted not knowing very much about his family, which had lived in Union County, Arkansas for six generations."

Kathleen Sechrest is an accomplished musician. She teaches piano, instruments and voice, in Lake Jackson, Texas. She lives in the same town as Norma (Jarry) White.

Comment - by Kathleen Sechrest:

There were two children not mentioned in the above settlement. (1) Sarah Ann, who married William R. Graves on 20 July 1856. He was the youngest brother of my gt. - gt. grandfather, John D. Graves. They moved to Bradley County Arkansas where both died about 1865 or 1866. There were two children who were made wards of James H. Grumbles (her brother)---but they evidently died very shortly because I can find no further record of them. (2) John Grumbles---no information on him.

MY PERSONAL MEMORIES OF GRANDPA AND GRANDMA JARRY

by

Ernest C. Hatton

Grandpa Jarry was a great story teller. He had a remarkable memory and virtually all of his stories were about friends, acquaintances and his own experiences. He had a habit of quoting conversations in his stories. Back in his time many people developed the habit of saying "Says I". He evidently slurred it into "Si". He would select his words brokenly so he could lead up to a real hearty chuckle at the proper point. People would gather around to hear him tell his colorful stories, probably as much to hear his hearty chuckles and the impressive way he presented his stories as the information they contained. He often talked about many of the happenings while he was in the quartermaster corp of the Southern army during the Civil War. One story, for instance, dealth with a Southern Scout, scouting the maneuvers of the Northern Army, who turned gray over night. A Northern Scout, realizing what the Southern Scout was doing, took after him with sword drawn. They were both on horseback. The Northern Scout kept rushing his horse so he could get close enough to the Southern Scout to use his sword on him. Apparently the speed of the horses was so nearly equal that the Southern Scout had to push his horse for dear life and lean forward in his saddle to barely keep out of reach of the Northern Scout's sword. He finally got close enough to the Southern Army lines that the Northern Scout turned back. He was under so much stress of fear, expecting the Northern Scout to strike a death blow any moment, that the tremendous excitement turned him gray over night.

Many times I heard him relate stories of the Northern and Southern soldiers getting together at night for games, jokes and story telling, only to be back in battle against each other the very next day. He held all of his listerners spell bound as he told how the battle developed, the happenings during the battles and the final results. I well remember a story of his own experience in the army, when he said he liked to have starved to death; he paid $5.00 for a frying size chicken and made a secret pact with himself that if he ever got back home, he would always have plenty to eat. I just loved to go to Grandpa Jarry's house, for they had so many good things to eat. Grandpa raised the finest garden, watermelons, cantaloupes and muskmelons. He never failed to cut a big watermelon, some cantaloupes and muskmelons every day while I was at his house.

Grandpa had a fine orchard of peaches, apples, plums and chestnuts. He also had the finest vineyard I ever saw. I remember he had white grapes and it seems that he also had concord grapes. My favorite though was the abundance of Black Scuppernongs. The Scuppernong is the cultivated Muscadine. Muscadines still grow wild virtually all over the woods in East Texas. The vines grow even to the top of trees. In some area the Muscadines were called Bullises. On many occasions some man would say to some stronger man, "I'll bet you I can stick my finger right through your fist." Naturally after being assured that that couldn't be done, the challenger would turn a Muscadine hull wrong side out over the end of his first finger and regardless of how tightly the other fellow clinched his fist, the Muscadine hull on the end of his finger would slip right on through his fist. This was one of Grandpa's stories.

He was a great sportsman. How many stories have I heard him tell about exciting deer hunts. Many times he and I went squirrel hunting together. Since neither he nor I could walk the great distances of the woods he liked to hunt in, we rode horseback. When "Old Coley", his Feist Squirrel dog, treeed a Squirrel we would ride up close to the tree, tie our horses and one work one side of the tree while the other stood still on the other side. If the one standing still didn't see the Squirrel turning on a limb or the body of the tree, the one working around the tree would shake a bush vigorously. This usually did the trick. As soon as the Squirrel became visible, it was no problem to shoot him. We were more interested in hunting the Fox Squirrel than the Cat Squirrel for the Fox Squirrels are much larger than the Cat Squirrels.

He was also a great fisherman. The last fishing trip we went on together was on the Big Iron Ore Creek. We pitched camp, erected our tent to sleep in and raked off a clean place to build a fire right in front of the tent, for heat, light, to cook on and for protection. On our way to where we camped out, I killed a Quail and a Squirrel and Grandpa caught a Trout. He asked me if I knew how to tell when coffee is ready to drink. I asked him how he could tell. He said that just as soon as it gets strong enough to float an iron wedge it's just right.

Just as it began to get dusty dark he and I set out 13 fish hooks, using hog liver for bait. About midnight we made it around to the hooks. Just about daylight we made a second round to the hooks and brought the hooks and lines back to camp. We caught about thirty pounds of Chanel Cat on these 13 hooks we set out. So, since we already had all we could eat, we cleaned these Chanel Cat, fried them and took them back home with us.

Grandpa, while riding horseback, rode very erectly and always reminded me of "Uncle Sam", with a little white gottee beard, white hair and a white hat turned up just like Uncle Sam's hat.

He showed me how to hunt Bee trees; he took a little honey in a bucket lid and set it down by a spring branch. Evidently they could smell the honey, for after sitting still for a few minutes the Bees began to come and load up with honey. They would then fly right straight to the Bee tree. By watching you could see what direction the tree was in. We kept moving the honey in the direction the Bees were flying. By sitting still a few minutes they would begin to feed again on the honey. As soon as they began taking off in the opposite direction we knew we had passed the Bee tree. By watching carefully we could soon see the Bees coming and going from the hollow tree where they swarmed to make honey. The next move would be to cut the tree down then take the edible honey out and take it home to eat on for weeks at a time. The term, "a Bee Line" was derived from the straight line the Bee flies from its feeding place to the hive where they are making honey.

Grandpa showed me how to shoot birds on the wing. Lead them a little. We hunted only edible game like Quails and Doves.

He told me never to lie down on wet ground, lest I catch cold. Never sleep in the morning between Breakfast and Dinner for it makes you feel droopy and groggy. After dinner is the time to take a short nap.

I learned from him the size shot to use for Squirrel and bird hunting. He almost invariably used No. 6 shot for Squirrel hunting, expecially since it took a good gun to kill a Squirrel in the top of the tall Virgin Pine trees. The smaller the shot, the bigger the pattern you get though in shooting birds.

When we got lost in strange woods, he looked at the Moss on the tree trunks. The Moss is always heavier on the South side. This way he knew directions so he could find his way back to camp.

Grandpa always had a toddy every morning. Every Christmas he made Eggnog, using the whites of eggs and not enough whiskey to make it very strong for the women folks. He used the Yolks of eggs and a generous portion of whiskey for the men folks.

I helped and learned from Grandpa how to build a mud chimney. He carefully selected the clay which he mixed Spanish Moss with and then rolled mud cats just long enough to drape over the slats or lath nailed the proper spacing on the frame of the chimney. While the cats were still soft he would press the ends of each cat down smoothly to make a solid straight wall. He would then dip a brush into water and smooth the surface until it was a nice smooth finish when it dried.

I also learned from helping him how to drill a well by hand, using an auger, with a lever long enough for a man on either end to turn the auger. Every so often you pull the auger up, unload it and put it back in and continue the procedure until you strike water. After you drill as deep as you think necessary after striking water, you build the curbing; several feet from the bottom of the curbing you drill holes and nail sponges in these holes for the water to strain through before you install the curb into the well.

The only time I ever saw Grandpa jest with Grandma was when he goosed her in the side. Her reaction was funny to him, but she said, "I'll smack you!"

My first recollection of Grandma was that she was stooped. She was an immaculate housekeeper and a wonderful cook. Grandma always cooked plain Spoon bread, without Soda or Baking Powder, with just a little salt, for Grandpa didn't eat cornbread with either Soda or Baking powder in it.

She always worked the milk out of the fresh butter then molded it in butter molds. She had a big pantry with shelves loaded with jellies, jams and preserves of many different kinds. I well remember the long dining table, with a long bench on either side and a chair at either end. The table was always loaded with good food. We children always waited on the table and helped the children's plates. She always had plenty of fresh butter, buttermilk and sweet milk, and always had both cornbread and hot biscuits when she had company.

I learned from her how to make Scuppernong wine and still use her receipe. She nearly always had plenty of honey in the comb, the way I liked it best. She had pickled beets and pickled cucumbers. She could make the best pot gravy and stewed squirrel or stewed chicken, with just enough salt, black and red pepper. She always cooked the Squirrel and Chicken until it was so tender that it would fall off the bones. There is nothing better than Squirrel or Chicken cooked like this, with some pot gravy over it.

MEMORIES OF GRANDFATHER, WILLIAM ALVY FREDERICK JARRY
And Mary Jane (Grumbles) Jarry

AS SUBMITTED BY JUANITA JARRY BOWLIN

William Alvy Frederick Jarry was of medium build, maybe weighing around 140 to 150 pounds, and about five feet nine inches tall. He was not a physically strong man, but strong in character. He worked hard as long as he could. He brought his children up to work. His family never knew what it was to be hungry. When he was in the army during the Civil War, he suffered from hunger. He said he promised himself then, that if he lived to get back home, he would always have plenty to eat. The meat from wild hogs helped to save his life. On his farm he raised food in abundance for his family and a host of visitors. He grew every kind of fruits and vegetables known to be grown in East Texas. His peach orchard was a lovely sight in the spring with blossoms of every shade of pink. In the summer and fall the limbs were loaded with beautiful, luscious peaches of many kinds. The pantry shelves were lined with jars of beautiful, delicious canned fruits. His grape and scuppernong vineyard was an interesting sight to behold. The purple and white grapes hung in large bunches, and clusters. One scuppernong arbor was about 100 feet long and 25 feet wide. The grandchildren enjoyed walking on top, gathering the juicy fruit on top and underneath. The arbors were interesting sights with the clusters of black scuppernongs.

Recently an elderly lady was asked if she ever knew William A.F. Jarry. She replied that she did, and once lived not very far from him in the Mt. Pleasant community when she was a child. She recalled that he, traveling in a wagon, stopped at their house one day and called to the children there to come out and fill their pockets with grapes. She said that they were the most, and most beautiful, good tasting grapes she had ever seen.

A brick canning furnace was built in the yard under the oak trees, where the family, relatives and friends got together and canned fruit. The children who were too young to gather fruit and do other chores, turned the handle on the peach peeler.

In the winter the smoke house was filled with smoked hams, "middlings" (bacon) and stuffed sausage. The aroma of the hickory smoke coming from the smoke house during the meat curing process, was something to remember always.

Besides the canned fruits and vegetables, there was an abundance of dried food, such as peas, beans, peanuts, hickory nuts, chestnuts and fruits. There was no such thing as going away hungry after visiting Grandpa Jarry. Every Sunday when church services were dismissed at the Church of Christ, Grandpa got up and announced, "Everybody come to my house to dinner." They usually about all did, especially those who came from miles away. As the caravan of wagons drove up to Grandpa's house, he met each and said, "Unhitch your teams, put them in the barn lot and the boys will feed them."

It seemed that Grandpa Jarry had the best watermelons and cantaloupes in the country. He raised plenty to share with others. He grew two of the largest chestnut trees that most likely ever grew any place. The large mulberry trees that grew on his front lawn, "the stomp", it was called, seemed to furnish berries for all the birds in the country.

It was very comforting to all in front of his fireplace in the winter, where it was cozy, quiet and peaceful. The tick-tock of the clock on the mantle added interest to the environment. There was always a place for the dog and cat near the fire.

He always had a squirrel dog. He hunted squirrels for food. When he had killed all he needed for a meal, he was satisfied for then. He did not believe in killing for the sport of it. When he became disabled to carry his gun without becoming tired, he did not hunt unless someone could go along and carry his doublebarrel shotgun. His grandson, Vessie B. Jarry, has been known to carry it for him. The last dog he owned died the day before he did.

He enjoyed going fishing and camping out over night. He often made fishing trips to the river.

His children knew him as a strict disciplinarian. When he spoke to one of them, just one time, to do or not to something, that was final. If he or she did not obey, punishment followed. His son, Hugh Monroe, said that one morning his "Pa" came to his door and called to him to get up and build a fire in the cook stove. Not being entirely awake, he went back to sleep unintentionally. He was awakened again by his father's footsteps coming across the hall way. He heard him stop for the razor strap that hung on the wall in the back hall that was near the mirror by the water shelf. He jumped out of bed, went out at the window, putting his overalls and shirt on as he took long strides getting to the back door of the kitchen. His father, not finding him in bed, went to the kitchen and found him lighting his rich pine splinters. Grandpa said to him in a kind voice, "Well, son, you are getting the fire built." Hugh Monroe, with one overall strap hanging off one shoulder, and shirt not yet tucked in all the way around, felt relieved.

Grandpa was an interesting person to be with and to talk to. Listening to him tell things was always of interest, whatever the age of the listener. He was a person with wit, and humor. Some of his grandchildren, one day, trying to impress Grandpa and Grandma, were boasting about things that they had done. Grandpa listened with, seemingly, interest, and replied, "It is a poor dog that won't wag his own tail."

MARY JANE GRUMBLES JARRY was born in Alabama April 27, 1846 to Jessie and Elizabeth Grumbles. Her Grandfather was Benjamin Grumbles. She married William Alvy Frederick Jarry June 25, 1865. She looked to be about five feet tall, maybe, before she became stooped and perhaps weighed around 115 pounds on the average.

MEMORIES OF HER GRANDCHILDREN AS WELL AS HER CHILDREN

Grandma Jarry worked very hard keeping house. She prepared delicious meals for her family and friends. Her grandchildren enjoyed eating there at meal time and between meals. They could usually find such things as fried squirrel and gravy with red pepper seasoning on it, and dried peach tarts in her kitchen safe. In those days, usually when a family had visitors and there was not room at the dining table for all, the children waited until the adults had finished eating. Sometimes the children got the backs and necks of the chicken, but not at Grandma's house. She always put aside some of the choice of all the food for her children and friends' children. Since they had so many friends in their home for meals, she nearly always felt the need of being in a hurry. One member of the family said that she had seen her sit and bounce her feet slightly up and down while shelling peas. She seemed to have an up and down motion in her body at such times. Since she was such a wonderful cook, it is no wonder her daughters were good cooks also.

She was a devoted wife, mother and grandmother. During cold winter nights she would tip-toe across the cold open hallways and go around her children's beds tucking the bed covers.

Grandma did not laugh very much, but when she did, she usually shook all over a little. One afternoon while taking her early afternoon rest, two of her granddaughters, Amy Peacock and Juanita Jarry, decided to open Grandpa'a trunk and get the little ten brown mules off of his Brown's Mule tobacco. They decided the aroma of the tobacco was interesting and that maybe the taste would be good. After taking a small nibble each, they decided that it wasn't at all what they expected. They ran to the edge of the front porch and each one clung to a post while hanging their heads over the ground. It should be easy to guess what happened next. Grandma had heard their conversation from the adjoining room. She came out laughing with her body shaking.

She and her husband were faithful members of the CHURCH OF CHRIST.

AUSTIN JONES MUCKELROY was a devoted husband, father and a worker for the Lord. He died March 21, 1936 and was buried in the Melrose Cemetery.

He died March 21, 1966 in Cross Plains, Texas where he was buried. His first marriage was to Tibitha Burnaman which ended in divorce. There was one child still born to this marriage. His second marriage was to Nettie Sanders. One son was born to this marriage, ZIRKLE RAYMOND MUCKELROY. After Nettie's death Nim married again to a lady in Cross Planes, Texas. Nim was a farmer, operator of store and service stations.

Nim and Nettie moved to Amarillo, Texas some time after 1947. Nettie was faithful to her husband, son and grandchildren, whom she and Nim helped to rear. They were members of the Church of Christ.

ZIRKLE RAMOND MUCKELROY later changed his name to Austin Muckelroy. He married O'Nita Turner of Center, Texas. Their birth dates are not available. EDGAR L. MUCKELROY is the second child of Austin Jones Muckelroy and Laura Levertte (Jarry) Muckelroy. He was born May 27, 1894 and died October 16, 1918. He was a person with a host of friends. He was well educated. Public school teaching was the profession that he had chosen to follow. He died during World War I while in the army camp in San Antonio, Texas during an epidemic of some type of disease, probably flu. The proper treatment was not known for this then, and it is reported that the boys in camp died so fast in large numbers that each one had a name tag bound to a toe and they were stacked. The news of Edgar's death came as a heavy blow to his family and to his community. He was buried in Nacogdoches County in the Melrose Cemetery.

THE FAMILY of JESSIE JARRY and LELA IONE (GLENN) JARRY

HENRY JESSIE (BUD) JARRY was born May 24, 1879 in Shelby County, Texas. He died September 15, 1960 in Tucumcara, New Mexico. He was buried in Pitersburg, Texas. He married Lela Ione Glenn September 17, 1905 in Shelby County Texas. For the early part of their life Jessie was a Farmer-Rancher, and owned and operated a general store in the Mt. Pleasant Community in Shelby County. He was a small man, and contributed this partly to having hook worms when he was a child, and nearly died with them. He felt that the sandy soil in the area was favorable for spreading the hook worms. He said, "I do not want this to happen to my children." He moved away to West Texas, and at one time to Oklahoma. He did mostly Farming and ranching for a living. For a number of years he was the head custodian of the Petersburg public Schools. He retired in Plainview, Texas. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

LELA IONE (GLENN) JARRY was born September 13, 1888 in Shelby County. She died July 15, 1959 in Plainview, Texas, and was buried at Petersburg, Texas. Lela Ione was a very pretty lady with beautiful long wavy hair. She kept a very clean house. It has been said of her, "When she had company, and before they drove out of sight, she had a fire around the washpot ready to wash the bed linens." Of course this was exaggreated somewhat but the point was made. She spent the last years of her life taking care of her husband who was bedfast with a stroke. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

NODA (JARRY) TEAGUE was born in Shelby County Texas in the Mt.Pleasant Community December 18, 1906, to Henry Jessie Jarry and Lela Ione Glenn Jarry. She was their first child. She was a happy little child, and a bit mischievous. After the mail carrier came one day by her father's store, he went out to the mailbox to get his mail. He decided to sit on a root of a tree a while to read his paper, which he often did. She invited her cousin, Juanita Jarry to go with her, and she slipped in at the back door, took a package of gum and invited Juanita to do so, which she refused. They went back to the house where her mother found out about the gum which Noda had stuffed, all of it, into her mouth for fear that she would have to give up some of it. Needless to say she got a scolding, and her mother had her to divide with Juanita. She was married in Oklahoma to SILAS A. TEAGUE, in 1924. He was born May 10, 1882 in Stephens Co. Texas. Silas A. died in Silverton, Texas in September 1949 where he was city Marshal. He and Noda were members of the Church of Christ. He was killed when lightning struck him while working in a cotton field near Petersburg, Texas, July 6, 1926. He was one of the three grandsons of William Alvy F. Jarry who wore the name "Jarry". There are only four great-grandsons who wear the name, "Jarry". William Alvy F. Jarry had five sons of his own. The "Jarry" name in the family has decreased. There is only one-- now, great-great-grandson. We are all very hopeful that the "Jarry" name from the Family of William A. F. Jarry does not become extinct. Hugh Monroe Jarry was much concerned about the Jarry name, of our family of Jarrys, becoming extinct.

LLOYD AFTON JARRY is the third child of HENRY JESSIE and LELA IONE (GLENN) JARRY. He was born February 10, 1912 in Jackson County Oklahoma at Olustee. Like his sister, Noda, Lloyd had some mischief in him too. Once, while an Aunt and Uncle, and cousins were visiting them, he would crawl on his hands and knees, going right by the adults getting apples out of a bag under the cook table and carry them back to the bed room where the children were playing. To him, seemingly, he thought he might not be seen, but the adults pretended not to see him. The children were welcomed to the apples.

FAMILY LEGENDS

Hugh Monroe Jarry told some family legends to his children as they were told to him by his father.

LEGEND: "There was a Jarry who came over with Cornwallace's Army from England, during the Revoluntionary War. He became ill and was not able to return to his country with his fellow soldiers when the war was over. So, he married in America, and never returned."

If it is true that a Jarry came to the American Colonies during the Revoluntionary War, it seems more likely that it might have been with a French Army that came over to help protect the Colonies from the English, since France seems to be more of the home land of the Jarry's.

Another legend concernes a JOLLY FAMILY. According to information passed down, W.A.F. Jarry's Mother, who was a large lady, was a JOLLY.

Legend: "A ship from one of the European Countries enroute to the American Colonies was leaking and began to sink just before docking on the Eastern Coast. There was a Jolly Family on the ship, who, according to the legend, was the ancesters of Ann J. Jarry. The wife was a heavy lady and wore the money belt around her waist to protect the money from thieves. The passengers on the boat were forced to jump from the boat and swim to land if they were not able to make it to shore by the jump. Some one attempted to throw the baby of the Jolly family. His life was saved, but he had a disfigured face for the rest of his life from the injury he received when thrown. The Mother of the Jolly Family jumped but did not make it to shore, because she had too much weight, and was not able to swim. Her body was recovered later, but the money belt was not with her body when her family received it."

FAMILY OF LILLIAN VIOLA (JARRY) PEACOCK and JOHN SIMEON PEACOCK

LILLIAN VIOLA (JARRY) PEACOCK is the nineth and youngest child of WILLIAM ALVY F JARRY and MARY JANE (GRUMBLES) JARRY. She was born September 18, 1887 in Shelby Co., Texas, and died December 6, 1971. She was a devoted wife and a good mother to her eight children. She was an emaculate house keeper as well as a very wonderful cook. Friends and relatives were very frequent visitors in her home, and felt a very warm welcome there. She had outstanding pride, not only in her house but in her family. She liked for her children to have the very best that she could afford. In addition, she taught them good citizenship, and the best of behavior. This teaching is still exhibited in their lives down to the present. In time of need she was always ready to assist her neighbors. She very often served as mid wife when her neighbors' babies were born. It wasn't easy for her when death took her two little boys, and later her husband, John. She always bravely strived to overcome these tragedies. Lillian had the will, and she found a way. She took care of her mother the last several years of her mother's life. She married JOHN SIMEON PEACOCK September 17, 1905. She married L. PRESS HATTON February 26, 1932. L.P. Hatton was born April 21, 1870 and died May 18, 1959. They lived together many years before death took him. He was buried in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

JOHN SIMEON PEACOCK (First husband of Lillian Viola (Jarry) Peacock) was born December 22, 1886 in Shelby Co. Texas. His father was S. ANDREW PEACOCK who was born February 6, 1853 and died November 1, 1934. His mother was ELLEN C. (MESSER) PEACOCK who was born September 18, 1855 and died September 26, 1921. John grew up in the Mt. Pleasant Community in Shelby County. He did farming and ranching, and grew large amounts of fruits and vegetables as well as water melons, cantaloupes, etc, for his family, and the market. He specialized more in doing work with heavy farm machinery. He owned and operated a peanut picker, and hay bailer. He owned a black smith shop and syrup mill. All this equipment was used to serve his friends and neighbors far and near. He enjoyed working with young people, and liked to plan things for their welfare and pleasure. He was a leader in the Church of Christ. Very often after church services on Sundays, he would stand on the front steps of the church building, at Mt. Pleasant, and announce that all who would like to go to their house for lunch were welcome. When death took him November 3, 1927, it was a tragic blow to his family and community. He was buried in the Mt.Pleasant cemetery in Mt. Pleasant community. His parents are also buried there.
